A theory is a contemplative and rational type of abstract or generalizing thinking, or the results of such thinking. [better source needed] Depending on the context, the results might, for example, include generalized explanations of how nature works. The word has its roots in ancient Greek, but in modern use it has taken on several related meanings. ...

One of the defining features of the neo-liberal era has been the buildup of private debt, particularly household debt. The banks and policy makers all assured us that this was fine because wealth was being built with the debt until, of course, it came tumbling down for many as a result of the GFC.

Australiaâ€™s household debt problem is not new â€“ it is a
